Akira Toriyama

volume 11

I love animals. I used to keep all sorts of pets when I was little: dogs, cats, birds, lizards, snakes, crows, turtles, frogs, you name it. Right now, I have a dog ("Turbo-maru") and five little birds, three of which I raised from eggs--now, they just hop right into the palm of my hand! Oh, and I have two parakeets. Still, there's one kind of animal I can't stand...mice! I hate 'em! Yeeargh!

—Akira Toriyama, 1983

鳥 山　明

Akira Toriyama's first weekly series, Dr. Slump, has entertained generations of readers in Japan since it was introduced in Shueisha's Weekly Shonen Jump magazine in 1980. A few years later, he created his wildly popular Dragon Ball series, which brought him international success. Toriyama is also known for his character designs for video games, including Dragon Warrior, Chrono Trigger and Tobal No. 1. He lives with his family in Japan.

[A Word from the Author]

Boy, did I used to fight with my sister.

Sure, I can hold my own in a tussle, but when it came to the war of words, I lost every time! She would call me "slow" or "dummy," and just as I was going to call her something back, she'd hit me with another!

Dang! I get all worked up just talking about it.

And how could so nasty a little sister have such a cute kid!? It makes no sense.

By the way, before I was a manga artist, I worked for an ad agency in Nagoya designing posters. I was there for three years! Impressive, huh?

Not so fast! I was late practically every day. I figured I'd be fired sooner or later, so I quit before it could happen. Genius!

Yes, Akira Toriyama's my real name. It's a pretty unusual name, actually, there's only three of us in all Aichi Prefecture... Ever since Dr. Slump came out, oh, the crank calls!

I got so many that I considered adopting the pen name "Nikisaku Mizutani" (the characters mean "plant your fields twice a year"), but my editor thought it was dumb. Rejected!

[A Word from the Author]

People sure call me dumb a lot, but I used to be a great student, really!

At least through elementary school... By junior high, I was too busy playing to study. Boy, was I popular on the playground! Ho ho ho.

Anyway, the point is that I did get all As one year. I was even class president. Hah! Scared!? You should be! Wah hah hah hah hah hah! (throws head back)

I guess you could say I came into my own in high school. That's when I became really dumb.

That I graduated at all is due to my genius at answering multiple-choice questions. All I have to do is look at the answer sheet, and I know which circles to fill in! That's right, boys and girls, multiple-choice questions can be answered by sheer force of will!

The artists I most respected growing up were, of course, Osamu Tezuka and Walt Disney. I would always be doodling the robots from Astro Boy when I was a kid.

When I copied those pictures into my notebook until the pages were black, that's when I became a manga artist.

So, if you want to be a manga artist, first, copy!

[A Word from the Author]

I hate being on TV. As soon as that giant cannon-like camera swings around toward me, I get so scared I can hardly speak.

And if I think that hundreds of thousands of people are watching me from the other side, it's enough to make me wet my pants. That's why, whenever I'm invited to appear on TV, I always make lots of excuses why I can't come. (What if everyone realized how dumb I was!?)

You know how frightening it is to be next to the people you see on TV every day? I appeared once on the show "Tetsuko's Room." Ack! It's Tetsuko Yanagi, and she's walking right at me! Wait, she's talking to me! I say something, and she smiles. It's horrifying. At the end of it all, I have no idea what I've said for the last half hour.

When I watch TV, I watch only nature shows like "Wild Kingdom." Stuff like that.

For me, the true stars are manga artists. When I meet a famous manga artist at a party, I always ask for an autograph. I have 30 already! In "Dr. Slump," Peasuke is always looking for autographs... Guess what: that's me!

[A Word from the Author]

I've had a chance to travel to all sorts of places since becoming a manga artist.

I'd never been out of Japan before, so what a surprise lay in store for me!

I went to America, and man, was I surprised to hear little kids speaking English so well! I cornered one and asked if he could write kanji! Hah! I showed him. Ahem.

Generally, when I go overseas, I stay in my hotel. Wa ha ha!

Everyone says they go overseas for the great scenery, but I grew up in the suburbs of Nagoya, man. I've seen it all!

They say it's so cool to see the horizon far off, but you go 10 minutes from my house, and you can see the horizon. You can see weasels and tanuki, too! Oh, the fun we used to have!

That's why, when I went to Switzerland, all I could think was "hey, more mountains." What really got me were the skyscrapers in New York, though! I'd like to meet whoever put all that concrete together. Impressive!

I like to swim, too, so I love Hawaii. I could spend my days drinking lemonade and floating in the sea... Ah, that's the life!

[Part Seven] So, how many points do YOU have? What!? You haven't got a single one wrong!? Okay, here's some REALLY tough ones. Choose "A," "B," or "C." [3 points each]

1. The first time I went to a manga party, everyone laughed at me. Why?
   - A: I wore a sweater even though it was summer.
   - B: I had a new suit tailored just for the occasion, and everyone else was in jeans.
   - C: I wore my track suit.
2. Why did I choose Matsuyama to be my new assistant?
   - A: Cause he was even uglier than I was.
   - B: Because he knew even fewer kanji than I did.
   - C: Because he was even more of a bumpkin than I was.
3. What happened the first time I ever ate a hamburger?
   - A: I ate the paper wrapper it came in.
   - B: I divided it into its component pieces and ate them separately.
   - C: I looked around for the chopsticks.
4. When I bought a talking parakeet, what word did I teach it first?
   - A: Poop.
   - B: Rejected!
   - C: Genius.
5. What did I do the first time I was ever asked for an autograph?
   - A: I wrote my name, then went on to write my whole address.
   - B: I was so nervous I forgot to draw Arale's glasses.
   - C: I tried to write my name in English and misspelled it.

[A Word from the Author]

As you all know, my first assistant was Hiswashi, but as these things go, he has his own manga now, so I was forced to find new blood!

Who should appear but my current assistant, Koji Matsuyama!

I claim proud rube heritage, but Matsuyama comes from the deep country. I mean the real boondocks. Makes my home look positively citified.

The first thing that surprised me was, when you make a phone call there, they broadcast that there's a call through speakers on the mountain!

Matsuyama's house is so big, it has its own highway running through it! Amazing!

And the wildlife--they could practically open their own zoo. Charging wild boars, monkeys stealing your lunch, the works! What's more, his mother always told him never to walk alone. Know why? Bears! Did you hear me? Bears!!!

This is why I chose Matsuyama as my assistant.

He's a great artist, and he loves making models. He even won a contest once!

Right now we're making Star Wars models together every day! Ack! Don't tell Editor Torishima!
